

WELCOME TO SAN CARLOS CASTLE

A castle with centuries of history

San Carlos castle was built on the 18th century in order to support the defence purposes all over the bay of the other two castles, the Principe castle in Ameixenda (Cee) and the Cardenal castle in Corcubión. After it stopped being used for defence purposes, and after a period of neglect it has finally been recovered in order to host a small museum about the world of fishing.

Image courtesy of Milagros Riveiro.

Fishing in Galicia throughout history

San Carlos castle hosts a small exhibition that tries to depict an overview of the world of Galicia fishing until nowadays.

Through this exhibition we would like you to discover the importance of fishing in the development of our coastal villages and towns throughout time. We would also like you to discover and appreciate the rich cultural and ethnographic heritage derived from the use of marine resources in our coast.